Oscillating between moments of hyperactivity and a laid back surfer attitude, Grant Lyon reveals his sixth grade personality on the stage. Grant discovered stand-up while playing collegiate soccer at UC Santa Cruz.

Stephanie is a 23 year old hair stylist by day and Jenga enthusiast by night. She is an amateur comedian, a lover of long walks on the beach, and cupcakes.

Charley Guptill is a sophomore at Willow Glen high and is considering a phone-finger transplant to allow him to text message by just pressing his fingers together.

Olivia Dickerson is a freshman at Branham High, likes bright colors and is trying to get Thursdays to be declared national holidays.

Kellen Erskine works with the top talent in the industry, recently including Norm Macdonald (SNL), and John Heffron. Kellen was a finalist in the 2007 San Francisco International Comedy Competition.

Josh Applebaum is a thriving 6th grader - poised to surpass his father. He's active on a year round swim team, plays the piano and trumpet, and studies and speaks both the Chinese and Hebrew languages. He's inherited his father's A.D.D. as well.

Originally from New York, Jeff moved here 17 years ago and built a career in hi-tech before pursuing his dream of being a standup comedian. Jeff was Joey Bishop in the "The Rat Pack Is Back," and appears in the film "The Pursuit of Happyness". Jeff recently made his national TV debut on CBS as a comedian on the "Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson."
