Sandi Selvi

(<http://www.sandiselvi.com>)

Sandi Selvi is a comedian, writer and Bay Area native. She maintains a unique perspective, having successfully battled the twin challenges of multiple sclerosis and motherhood. In March of 2000, Sandi underwent an experimental stem cell transplant to combat her MS. Sandi has been delighting audiences with her wit and insight at places like the Improv, the Comedy Store, Caroline on Broadway and many other venues. Sandi was featured in the comedy documentary by Jeff Mosley, "Comedy Ain't for the Money." And coming up in March of 2010, you can read all about Sandi in her book, Won't Do Stand-Up From A Wheelchair (Wyatt-Mackenzie, March 2010).

Kellen Erskine

(<http://www.myspace.com/ekellen>)

Kellen Erskine. Like a syringe his act is clean, sharp, and addicting. He has worked with the top talent in the industry, including Norm Macdonald (Saturday Night Live), and John Heffron (winner of NBC's Last Comic Standing.) He was also a finalist in the 2007 San Francisco International Comedy Competition.

Headlining the show... Comedian Jeff Applebaum!

(<http://www.jeffapplebaum.com>)

After 18 years in California, this New York City native is finally learning to speak English. Jeff's clean comedy examines his particular life experiences, which include being the only white kid on his Little League team in Queens, having a Chinese wife who orders from take-out menus in fluent Mandarin, and raising a pre-teen son who calls himself "Jewnese," because he says it sounds better than "Chine-ish." Jeff made his national TV debut on CBS as a comedian on the "Late Late Show with Craig Ferguson," and appeared in the "Pursuit of Happyness" with Will Smith.
